WISDOM PUBLISHING COMPANY

17. The interim financial statements were presented to the management to the Wisdom Publishing Company. While going through these statements, one of the members noticed that the income statement is based on the assumption that the revenue is earned with the publication of the every issue of the company's magazine. He wondered what the basic of this assumption is.

The wisdom Publishing Company publishes a monthly magazine entitled simplest. During recent years the readership of the magazine has increased like anything. The management committee is happy about the enhancement of readership and also the better financial health of the organization.

When the committee member questioned the basis of the timing of recognition of revenue, it was pointed out by the finance manager that "In magazine publishing industry, the timing of revenue could either be based on the cash sale of the magazine subscription or the publication of the magazine every month. Thirdly, we may also recognize a portion of the revenue with cash sale and a portion with the publication of the
